

CupCoat – the barrier makes the difference

State-of-the-art cupstock coatings solutions by Mondri

The first impression of every drink is the cup in which it arrives. This small paper cup has a big impact and is as important as the beverage itself. It has to fulfil various requirements to protect both the liquid and the consumer in the best possible way. Considerable care has been taken to maximise the performance of the board, but we firmly believe that the barrier makes all the difference for your cup. Mondri Extrusion Coatings proposes a variety of coatings to offer an outstanding paper cup, at the same time optimising the production process.

Mondri Extrusion Coatings has been in the Cupstock business for several years and provides a well established supply chain of board provision, PE coating and slitting.

Where our barriers can make a difference for your product:

- Outstanding sealing properties
- Sustainable and innovative solutions
- Superior printability
- Tailor-made service features
- Technical support

Our CupCoat solutions for your products:

Innovative:

Our many years of experience in supporting diverse industries with barrier materials, coupled with our openness to new ideas, enable us to develop highly innovative barrier solutions in close collaboration with our customers.

Printable:

Due to our access to a wide range of board materials, we can provide you with the best surface properties for printing. In addition, we offer special surface treatments to optimise the quality and printability of the product.

Sustainability:

We offer sustainable solutions to support our customers in going green. Our portfolio comprises barrier coatings which reduce your carbon footprint, including PE from renewable resources instead of standard polymers, and fully compostable materials.

Service oriented:

A dedicated team of technical experts supports our customers in developing the best possible solutions and further optimising production performance.

Sealable:

Our tailor-made polymer recipe allows our customers to optimise efficiencies on their production line, while still ensuring the best sealability properties.

Several years of experience in the business, a global sales network with dedicated sales managers and a European plant network with a backup plant strategy, make Mondi Extrusion Coatings the perfect choice of coating partner!
